A CENTENNIAL

Scottish Rite Celebrating a Notable Anniversary.

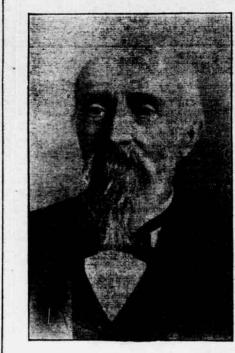

UNVEILING OF THE PIKE STATUE

Imposing Ceremonies Conducted by District Grand Lodge.

DISTINGUISHED ATTENDANTS

Events are making this day a most notable one to the numerous Masons of high degree who are in attendance from all parts of the country upon the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the highest body of their order.

The occasion was doubly significant, the principal feature being the unveiling of monument erected to Albert Pike, whose name and example are known and revered in every Masonic order the wide-world over and whose fame as a philantropist, a poet and a historian is scarcely less universal. For many years he had been the grand commander of the Supreme Council of the A. A. S. R. for the southern jurisdiction of the United States, which was established a hundred years ago in Charleston, S. C., and as such was the highest Mason in the world. When he died

the body over which he had so long and faithfully presided decided to make a last-ing memorial to him in the city of Wash-ing and the monument unveiled today was decided upon.

Congress authorized the use of the reservation at the intersection of Indiana avenue, 3d and D streets, but a block distant, and in ever present sight of the House of the Temple, where the later years of General Pike were spent and where the final summons calling him to the grave reached him. Gilbert de Trentanove, the sculptor, was engaged to create the monument, and the result is a striking one from every point of view. The well-known venerable figure of Pike stands upon a fall marble pedestal and below is an imposing bronze Our Lamp stock is now replete pedestal and below is an imposing bronze figure of a woman, representing peace, pottery, metal, porcelain and glass, has been draped in an American flag, to be removed today with imposing ceremony. The hour set for the exercises was reading lamps. At the base of the monument a large stand had been erected to accommodate the participants in the exercises and invited exercises.

clses and invited guests.

There were animated scenes in the vicinity of 9th and F streets, where the Masonic Temple is located, when the procession which was to escort the Grand Lodge of Masons of the District and the Supreme Council to the monument. This was composed of a large number of the Masons belonging to the various bodies in the District. They did not march as distinctive organizations, but in a body as Master Masons. Each was dressed in black clothing and wore a Master Mason's badge. The escort of honor was Orient Commandery, No. 5, Knights Templar, the officers of which were Dr. F. J. Woodman, eminent commander; E. B. Hesse, generalissimo; William Miller, captain general; John Schultz, secretary; W. Harry Olcott, treasurer. Headed by W. Harry Olcott, treasurer. Headed by Haley's Washington Band, playing a lively march, the procession proceeded to the House of the Temple, where the Supreme Council was taken in line and the short distance to the scene of the unveiling tra-

Upon reaching the scene the Grand Lodge of the District took positions on the plat-form, when the paraphernalia to be used in the impressive ceremony were in place, as follows

The whole country is anxious to support the administration so far as it may without regard to party, and the course of President Roosevelt is expected to emphasize rather than outrage this feeling. on the construction of the sewer in M street between 11th and 12th streets southeast. The Engineer Department has made a report upon the matter, and recommends that the time limit for each day's work be extended to sixteen hours, and that the force be allowed to work on Sunday it, in the opinion of the engineer, it would seem to be desirable, this permission to be revoked whenever the exigency ceases to exist. The request was made by the contractor because of the large amount of water encountered, which retards the work.
